HITCHCOCK DALRLING & C^o.

Nov 1st 96.
room 160.

My dear friend,

We arrived last evening and I com^{'ced} this after my return from G.wood with one mutual friend Mrs Chamberlain, where we spent part of the morning, took lunch and then sat down to write you, when ^a friend came in to sit the afternoon Mrs C. begged me to say to you; she would have been to see you ere this, but she had been house hunting. She wants very much to have you and your dear one to lunch with her. I fear you cannot read this, as I am writing by such a miserable light. Mr C, is looking like himself again, and sends warm regards with my love to your dear husband and your^{self} from as ever Jo. L Newcomb.
